

Ohio's Fall Foliage

Ohio River/National Road Fall Foliage Driving Tour – 63 miles

As the Ohio River curves sinuously through its valley in autumn, the hills of Monroe County ignite in a burst of reds and yellow foliage. Following Route 7 north from the Hannibal Locks, drivers will see rivulets cascading down steep hillsides and dense forests that stand upon reclaimed coal mines. At Bridgeport, turn west onto the historic National Road, Route 40. Along the road, in the towns of Blaine, St. Clairsville and Morristown, unique stone bridges and antique shops are waiting to be discovered. From Morristown, take Route 149 south to Belmont, then take Route 147 south for five miles. The journey culminates at Dysart Woods, the last large parcel of virgin forest remaining in southeast Ohio. Its majestic trees, set in moist, cool, primeval glens, put on a show of colors that has been rehearsed for more than 400 years.

Ohio Division of Travel and Tourism
1-800-BUCKEYE
www.DiscoverOhio.com